Roses

December 2021 10-10-21

Our bare root roses arrive in mid-December. This list represents plants that our supplier has confirmed, however these plants are a crop subject to weather and other factors. You can buy these in late December from our display at the rear area of our store.

You may also reserve any item listed before our shipments arrive by purchasing it now (provided we have been allotted sufficient quantity). We reserve roses according to the time and date the order was placed. The reserved plants will be set aside as they arrive and packaged and stored properly. The customer will be contacted. An entire order may not arrive at the same time. Note that bare root plants are a perishable product and should be picked up within a week of being contacted.

PRODUCT NOTES

The typical packaged bare root rose is about 20" long (including stems and roots) and about 2-3 pounds in weight. They are usually packed 1-5 plants in an enclosed plastic bag with wet paper around the roots.

Ideally these plants should be installed immediately. If not, store them outdoors in a mostly shaded location (the plastic bag should not be exposed to the sun). Indoors is normally too warm and will cause the plants to grow too fast. Note that bare root plants are a perishable product and cannot be stored for more than a few weeks.

WARNING

Most bare root problems are due to unsupervised installation by professional gardeners. We have a "planting guide" available with specific instructions for bare root roses. Nearly any potting soil or planter mix available at other garden centers will not benefit bare root plants.

REPLANT SYNDROME Be aware that plants will not grow well in the same soil twice.

Roses installed near an existing rose or in the location where a rose died or was removed will show little growth.

GENERAL PLANTING TIPS

The roots have to be kept moist or wet at all times. Failure to grow is usually due to failure of the roots to provide enough water to the branches to prevent shriveling. Branches are not totally water proof and dry winter winds can cause them to dehydrate. A bare root rose with tall branches will lose water much faster than a short one. Don't be afraid to prune. A short healthy rose will grow back quickly. A tall dead plant won't grow at all.

When planting in the ground do not use amendments like manure, sawdust, wood chips, bark, leaves or kitchen scraps. Compost kills roots.

When planting in containers use our TOP POT soil.

Guarantee

Our bare root roses are guaranteed for 3 months to begin growth or you will receive a refund. To be eligible for a refund you must have a receipt or have your name and phone # in our store register. The refund is for the value of the bare root rose. Roses growing in containers are priced much higher.
